

CITY MANAGER SESSION TO BE HELD AUGUST 12

Charter Revision Committee
To Hear Public on Proposed Government Change.

Councilman Howard C. McCutcheon, chairman of council's charter revision committee, yesterday set 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, August 12, as the time for a public hearing on establishment of a council-city manager form of government for Atlanta. Councilman John A. White, author of the proposal, has insisted that the people be allowed to vote on the issue in the September 2 municipal primary. If a favorable recommendation on the referendum is voted by the committee, it is anticipated council will approve the move and voters will express their preference in the primary. White asserted last night he will be at the hearing and also will attend a meeting of the safety committee Friday night at which time it is expected the committee will act on two other White measures.

One provides for establishment of a public safety director and the other for a special division of the recorder's courts to handle traffic cases. White said yesterday he favors taking the public safety director from the police department if a suitable man can be found. He insisted, however, that the director shall pass a rigid physical and mental examination, be morally fit and be able to organize and administer the department. "This is an administrative matter and the mayor and council should select the director," White added. "There is no necessity of attempting to belittle the matter by insisting on election of a public director by the people. That is preposterous."

JURY QUESTIONS FOUR ON COUNTY AUTO USE

Another meeting of the special grand jury committee investigating alleged unauthorized use of county-owned cars by county employees will be held tomorrow and more department heads will be summoned for questioning. Chairman Jesse S. Jenkins announced yesterday after four members of the county government had been interviewed.

Jenkins indicated that all county employees who have cars assigned to them may be called before the jury committee before the probe is ended. Frank R. Fling, clerk of the county commission, Lieutenant J. D. Ragsdale of the police department, and Reese Perry and H. W. Gilbert, county tax assessors, were questioned yesterday.

MRS. REYNOLDS RITES AWAIT SON'S ARRIVAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Walter Reynolds, widow of the late Walter Reynolds, Atlanta newspaperman, will be held when contact is established with her son, Hal Reynolds, who is now on a motor trip in Florida. Mrs. Reynolds had been in declining health for some time, but her death was not expected. Her husband died here in February. He was formerly associated with The Constitution for many years.

H. M. Patterson & Son are in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Big Comet in Heavens Leaving on Long Trip

Mother Earth will hold a last observation "party" this week to honor a sister of the skies, Peltier's comet, who is leaving on a 400-year journey. After a brief week's blinking at the earth from a distance of 18,000,000 miles, the comet will vanish into the darkness on her way to some unknown destination.

Tonight Peltier's comet will be nearer the earth than at any other time. Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court, amateur astronomer, said, but due to the brightness of the moon, the judge predicted that Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights would be better nights on which to view the fleeting heavenly visitor.

To locate the comet, Judge Humphries suggested that one hunt for Cassiopeia, five-star, now in the northeast, and then look to the right of this group. The comet will be brightest after midnight, when the constellation has moved directly overhead, and it will be visible to the naked eye after it has first been located with field glasses.

WILLIAM ALBERT DAVIS WILL BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral services for William Albert Davis, city fire inspector for the last 25 years, who died Sunday at his residence, 865 Moreland avenue, S. E., will be held at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the Baptist Tabernacle with Dr. W. H. Knight officiating.

Mr. Davis, an active member of the Baptist Tabernacle, and a member of the International Firefighters' Association, was 54 years of age. He had been in declining health for an extended period.

Burial will be in Crest Lawn cemetery with Awtry & Lowndes in charge.

TECHWOOD APPLICANTS BEGIN SIGNING LEASES

Families Accepted Can Begin Moving in On August 15.

Applicants for Techwood apartments accepted by the Techwood Homes rental office began signing leases yesterday afternoon, preparatory to moving into the newly completed federal low-cost housing project. The project, built with PWA funds and labor, cost $2,750,000.

Though September 1 is slated as the day when the official opening ceremonies of the project will be held, tenants may begin moving in August 15, D. A. Calhoun, PWA housing division district manager, announced yesterday.

First of the new tenants to sign a lease was W. C. Steele, engineer at the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills. His present address is 573 Glenwood avenue.

As Steele signed the lease, Mrs. Steele commented on her old apartment: "It was dirty and stuffy and noisy. I am so happy we could get a place here."

Steele, his wife, and Powell Steele, young son of school age, will occupy a four-room apartment, No. 12, 573 Techwood drive.

Minimum income for three-room apartments at Techwood Homes, the housing director said, is $700, while the maximum income is $1,200. The housing director said there were still rooms to be had at Techwood Homes for those whose incomes approximate those figures.

"The advisory committee and I feel that there are a lot more people in Atlanta who need improved housing than have registered with us. We are still taking applications and preference will be given to those in low-income brackets."

More than 2,000 names are to be stricken from the Fulton county grand jury list within the next three months. A. D. Adair, chairman of the jury commission, announced yesterday as the biennial revision of the grand and petit jury lists began in compliance with the law.

The present grand jury list comprises the names of 4,027 residents of Atlanta and Fulton county. It was understood that between 2,000 and 2,500 names will be eliminated.

The jury commission will purge the petit jury list of 19,535 names also, but this list will not be cut.

The grand jury is to be reduced in accordance with an amendment passed by the state legislature last year fixing the minimum number of names on the grand jury list at 1,000 and the maximum at 2,000.

Adair said the work of cutting the grand jury and purging the petit jury lists will take three months or longer. The grand jury is drawn from selected residents of the entire county, each name on the list being investigated thoroughly by the jury commission before it is put on. Members of this jury are chosen as leaders in their communities. In addition to the routine work of considering indictments, the grand jury is duty bound to investigate the county and its affairs twice yearly. It has the power to recommend reforms of any nature.

The reduction in number will result in those left on the grand jury list serving twice as often as previously.

In purging the petit jury list, the jury commission will eliminate the names of persons who have died, removed from the county, or been convicted of a crime, and will add to it the names of new taxpayers.

Adair said that although the jury commission meets once each week ordinarily, additional meetings may be called in order to care for the extra work. Serving with Chair. Adair are F. J. Paxon, George H. Sims, J. A. Bishop, George White and W. Cleo Kendrick, the last named two having been appointed to the positions formerly held by Oliver Dolvin and A. Steve Nance. J. Walton Simmons, clerk of the Fulton superior court, is secretary of the commission.

NEGRO TO BE EXECUTED IN ATTACK ON WOMAN

in Courtroom.

ANNISTON, Ala., Aug. 3.—(P)—A negro accused of attacking a white woman was convicted and sentenced to die today shortly after the victim's husband created a sensation by brandishing a pistol in the militia-guarded courtroom.

Judge R. B. Carr set the execution date for Friday, September 4. The jury deliberated 20 minutes.

National guardsmen immediately started with the negro, Roosevelt Collins, for Kilby State prison at Montgomery. Court spectators were required to remain seated until they had left with him.

The woman's husband produced the pistol while Collins was testifying in his own behalf. There was a moment of wild commotion as a state highway patrolman seized the weapon. It was not fired.

Militiamen hurried the negro into an anteroom and order was restored.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The estranged wife of young Al Smith Jr. gave up her New York apartment today and made plans to return home to live with her parents and file suit for separate maintenance.

Word of her plans came from the former Bertha Gott's mother, Mrs. William H. Gott, her attorney, Clifford H. Searl, of Syracuse.

Mrs. Gott, wife of a retired railroad engineer, said that her daughter would "return home soon" but that she didn't know "exactly when."

At Rochester Searl said that Mrs. Smith Jr. would apply for separate maintenance in supreme court at Syracuse August 17.

The two were married in 1924 when young Al's father was a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination. They have been estranged since 1932.

Mrs. Al Smith Jr., meanwhile, could not be reached for comment or a definite statement as to her plans.

Charges against Mrs. Mary D. Gouelock, superintendent of the Confederate Soldiers' home, were nolleprossed yesterday by Judge James C. Davis in Fulton superior court at the request of Solicitor General John A. Boykin.

After a municipal court judge had refused to issue a warrant against Mrs. Gouelock on charges of forging the name of a Confederate veteran to a pension check, she was indicted by the Fulton grand jury.

Judge Davis' order dismissing the indictment stated that "sufficient reason" for nolleprossing the charge had been presented by the solicitor general.

LONDON'S COGNOMEN IS SCORED BY ICKES

"Practical" Progressive Subjected to Bitter Denunciation of Official.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Drawing what he called "a deadly parallel" between present and past statements by Governor Alf M. Landon, Secretary Ickes tonight said it appeared that "Candidate Landon was gone A. W. O. L. from the war against poverty and want and the exploitation of the weak in which he enlisted in 1933."

The Roosevelt cabinet officer, in a radio address entitled "Governor Landon—'Practical' Progressive," in which he criticized such a designation spoke at length upon what he termed Landon's altered oil regulation views.

As presiding officer at an oil conference at the Interior Department here in 1933, Ickes said, Landon declared for "the iron hand of a dictator" unless the industry could solve its problem within 90 days. In his acceptance speech last month, Ickes added, the "iron hand of a dictator" against governmental regulation of industry.

The interior secretary quoted Landon as praising "the courage with which President Roosevelt has attacked the depression," in his 1933 speech at the oil conference. He then quoted Landon as adding the following words to this statement:

"If there is any way in which a member of that species, thought by many to be extinct, a republican governor of a middle western state, can aid him in the fight, I now enlist for the duration of the war."

"Laughter" compared by the stenographer taking down Landon's speech at this time, Ickes added, "is nothing compared with the laughter that goes up today when a deadly parallel between Candidate Landon's (acceptance) speech at Topeka, Kan., the night of July 23, 1936, is drawn with the speech of Governor Landon in Washington in 1933."

Although devoting a major portion of his speech to statements touching on oil, Ickes criticized the republican party and its platform, parts of Landon's record in Kansas, and said the Kansan had been "adopted" by William Randolph Hearst. In referring to Landon as a "practical" progressive, Ickes said:

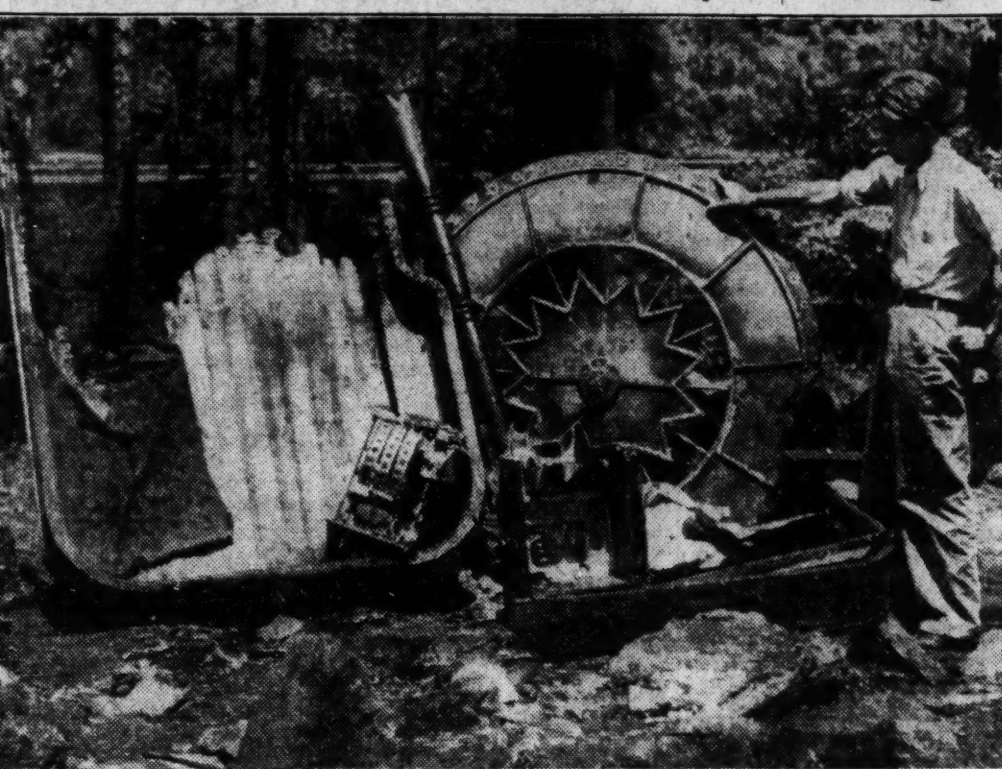

"So we have a platform that faces both ways upon which stands a candidate who the west is asked to endorse because he is a 'progressive,' while at the same time he is entirely satisfactory to Wall Street and the predatory interests because he is 'practical.'"

Battered Monument to 'Smartest Spot in Georgia'

Fractured skeletons of slot machines and the charred and dented remnant of what was once a gally-painted, jeweled wheel of fortune are piled into a forlorn heap on the grounds of the raided Casa Loma night club, which for six weeks boasted its lack of competition as the smartest spot in Georgia. R. L. Camp, one of the guards, is shown at one of the heaps. There are two or three more like this. The white building where thousands of dollars changed hands nightly and expensive liquor flowed freely is now locked and barred, while 26 employees, locked and barred in the jail at Jonesboro, fight for their freedom. Federal Stock Purchases Begin
In Drouth Areas To Aid Farmers

Pledge Made To Support Present Prices; Shortage of Pasture and Water Force Cattle on Market at September, October Rate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—With a pledge to support present prices, the government today began buying cattle from drouth areas and simultaneously moved to provide more jobs for suffering farmers and insure a seed supply for their next year's crops.

Officials said rising corn prices and the shortage of pasture and water were forcing cattle on the market at the rate normally expected in September and October.

They swung a $5,000,000 fund into action, concentrating purchases totaling 4,793 head in five major markets. Under contracts previously announced, the cattle will be turned over to the Armour, Swift and Cudahy packing companies to be processed for distribution through state relief agencies to persons on relief.

From Jesse W. Tapp, chairman of the Agriculture Department's drouth committee, said the AAA cattle section was pledged to support current price. He added:

"If prices strengthen, the committee will discontinue purchases, but if they continue low or decline further, fresh purchases will be made."

Although the present purchase fund available to the committee is $5,000,000, officials estimated it could command as much as $30,000,000 if necessary.

Plans for farm seed aid in drouth areas were discussed in office quarters but details were withheld pending decision on sources finance it. It was suggested, however, that the government might obtain and hold for resale to farmers approximately 3,000,000 bushels of seed wheat, oats, barley, rye, flax and other coarse grains, thereby guaranteeing available supplies this winter.

Officials also discussed the possibility of obtaining seed loan funds through the Commodity Credit Corporation, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Corporation.

During the day orders went out from WPA to employ 26,500 additional drouth-stricken farmers, raising the total number of Works Progress Administration jobs authorized in ten middle western states to 80,000.

Work quotas were assigned to four states for the first time, with 4,000 WPA jobs authorized in Colorado and 5,000 each in Kentucky, Kansas and Nebraska. At the same time Wyoming's quota was increased from 2,000 to 4,000, Minnesota's from 1,500 to 3,000, and Missouri's from 3,000 to 5,000.

PURCHASES SIGNALIZE DROUTH PROLONGATION
CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—An 11-year high for cash corn and first government purchases of livestock signaled today the prolongation of the three-month drouth.

Leading grain prices to further peaks after a week of almost steady advances, corn climbed almost four cents at the start of trading on unofficial estimates. July's damage amounted to 700,000,000 bushels. It finished in a flurried market, 1 to 3 3/4 cents up from Saturday's close, September $1.09 1/4.

Cash No. 1 white corn was quoted at $1.20 a bushel, the top since 1925 and equal to the best current price for No. 1 hard wheat. The trade had reports that Kansas farmers were getting 7 to 10 cents a bushel more for corn than for wheat.

While other cereals advanced to new high levels in some cases not equaled since 1925, the heaviest run of cattle that mark the ruinous path of the invaders.

Two guards were stationed at the building, which is locked, barred and bolted against curiosity seekers. One guard had been placed there during the day time and two during the night by E. L. Camp, the farmer who was appointed receiver for the property by Judge Davis until its fate can be determined.

Guards Doubled Sunday.
The guards were doubled, however, when Sunday brought between 15,000 and 18,000 curiosity seekers from Atlanta and the various communities along the highway on down to Macon.

"They just swarmed all over the place," said Guard R. L. Camp, son of the receiver. "They had various opinions about the law's action in raiding and busting up the place. Some believed it was a fine thing and some believed that it was an outrage."

Young Camp and J. E. Oakes, his fellow guard, both agreed yesterday that "it seemed a pity" for the officers to have destroyed all that expensive liquor.

"It could have been sent to a hospital or sold to some place where liquor is legal and the state could have had the money," they agreed.

As to the destruction of the gambling equipment, however, both agreed that it was a matter of indifference to them.

"They tell me," said Oakes, "that that spinning wheel over there cost $3,000, but I don't believe it. It looks more like a $75 or $100 job. It sure was pretty, though. And those jewels in it that they burned up—I don't

17 NEW POLIO CASES REPORTED IN 2 STATES

Another Death Occurs in Alabama; Sport Events Postponed.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

One death and 17 new cases were reported Monday in a waning outbreak of infantile paralysis that has claimed 24 lives and stricken 362 persons in Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia and Mississippi.

The report of new cases covered the week-end and was confined to 10 in Tennessee and seven in Alabama. The latest death occurred in Alabama, that of Jess Miles, 7, of Madison county.

As health authorities apparently gained the upper hand in their persistent fight against the dread disease, organizations began reviving plans for postponed conventions and sports events.

The American Legion announced its state convention in Alabama would be held August 23-25 at Huntsville and the Alabama state amateur golf tournament will be held August 26-29 at Birmingham. These and numerous other events were postponed in the battle to prevent the paralysis spread.

Churches and motion picture houses in sections of the affected district plan to start full-time operations again. As the outbreak continued its downward trend, health authorities began checking data on the merits of the new polio acid-alum spray which has been used extensively as a disease preventive.

A final decision on its value was withheld, but all said they had hopes it would prove to have "real merit."

Believers they were real jewels; they were just glass.

He pointed to the charred remnants of the huge wheel of fortune, which glittered in bright colors and glass adornments like a merry-go-round at a street carnival.

Slot Machines Smashed.
The slot machines, which varied in their prices from 5 to 50 cents, are just fractured skeletons today, very little left to distinguish them in their original splendor, but the cylinders on which are painted oranges and cherries and black crosses.

The guards have nailed a barricade across the entrance to the night club and the curiosity seekers today must leave their cars in the highway if they care to trudge up the steep hill to view the smart spot that died in its infancy.

Four automobiles still remain unclaimed in the parking space behind the club. Friday after the raid, there were a dozen or more, but patrons who escaped through back doors and in the machines of other persons have returned timidly to claim their forgotten machines. The automobiles are being returned to their owners by Receiver Camp as fast as ownership is established to his satisfaction.

Several thousand dollars, found in the slot machines when they were smashed, have been impounded by court order, but Receiver Camp yesterday was appealing for authority to sell foodstuffs in the building. This food would be a total loss, he said, if held until the litigation is settled.

ATLANTA, GA., AUG. 4, 1936

HAPPY TOBACCO GROWERS

Beginning today the tobacco markets in south Georgia will get under way and a golden stream of money will be turned loose among the producers in 20-odd counties.

Tobacco has been termed Georgia's "miracle" crop because, with the coming of the boll weevil and the practically complete destruction of the cotton crop in the southern counties of the state, it not only stayed off disaster for thousands of farmers, but opened the way for bigger and surer profits than they had ever enjoyed as cotton producers.

This year's crop is estimated at 75,000,000 pounds, as against the 70,000,000 last year, from which the producers received $13,281,000. In 1935 a crop of approximately 60,000,000 pounds brought the growers only $6,100,000.

It is expected that this year's crop will not only exceed the one of last year, both in size and quality, but that prices for the different grades of leaf will be higher. If these expectations materialize it means that they may receive between $15,000,000 and $16,000,000, or even more.

Georgia's bumper tobacco crop was produced in 1930, when 104,000 pounds were raised. Since an average of 13 cents a pound was secured, the growers received approximately the same total amount of money as that paid them for last year's crop, which was a third smaller.

No better index of the wisdom of the acreage curtailment program, and the general improvement in conditions, is to be found than in the rosy prospects faced by Georgia's tobacco growers this week. The policies of the New Deal have enabled them to curtail their acreage and, at the same time, brought them the largest returns in the history of tobacco production in Georgia.

HOW EUROPE SEES US

With the parlor bolsheviks of the United States urging that we adopt the radical policies of some of the European nations, it is well for the people of this country to contrast conditions here and in the dictator-ridden nations, the people of which have neither freedom of speech or action nor economic well-being.

The favored position of the people of the United States among all the peoples of the world is reflected in the report recently made by a commission of Europeans upon their return after an exhaustive study of economic and living conditions in America.

Despite the professed dissatisfaction of the radical malcontents in the United States, this group of governmental and economic experts found that—

Seven per cent of the people of the world live in the United States, and have more purchasing power than all of Europe together.

This little group has created and owns more than half the wealth of the world.

This group has half of the world's communication facilities.

This group produces 92 per cent of the world's automobiles, 22,000,000 of which are operated over 600,000 miles of paved roads.

This group has nearly half the world's railway and electric energy.

This group of the world's population enjoys standards of living which has enabled the United States to consume annually: (a) Half the world's coffee. (b) Half the world's rubber. (c) Three-fourths the world's silk. (d) One-third the world's coal. (e) Two-thirds the world's crude oil.

In no other country of the world do the masses of the people fare as well as in this country and no country in all the world has prospered as has ours.

And yet we are told by pink-parlor bolsheviks who are permitted to plant their insidious doctrines in the minds of our college students that we should turn for rescue to the doctrines of the decadent nations of Europe.

NEW ERA IN TRANSPORTATION

The extent to which the railroads of the country have awakened to the necessity of keeping their equipment, rate of speed and fares abreast with modern development is emphasized in the new "Mercury" train to be operated by the New York Central railroad between Cleveland, Toledo and Detroit.

The new train will leave Cleveland at 7:30 in the morning, reaching Detroit 2 hours and 50 minutes later, cutting exactly in half the schedule time required heretofore by the fast trains. It will leave Detroit at 5:35 in the afternoon and reach Cleveland at 8:25. Thus, leaving his home after breakfast in the morning, a Cleveland businessman can spend practically a full day in Detroit and return home in time for an evening engagement, whereas under previous schedules he would have had to spend nearly six hours more en route.

The new train, streamlined and air-conditioned throughout, will be the last word in luxury and convenience, so designed as to make the trip pleasurable and entertaining as compared with the generally disagreeable conditions existing on even the finest of parlor cars which have been the standard equipment of most American roads for the past quarter of a century.

It is termed in the announcement of the New York Central as "the train of tomorrow," and the luxurious appointments of its coaches, lounges, observation drawing room, parlor and dining cars have caused it to be described as "a traveling Park avenue club on rails."

In the report made to congress several years ago by the National Transportation Commission, of which President Coolidge was the chairman, particular emphasis was placed upon the recommendation that the railroads adopt faster schedules, lower passenger fares and better equipment as the best way to meet the competition from other forms of transportation.

The recommendation with reference to lower fares has been generally accepted and the railroads in every section are now stepping up the speed of their schedules and furnishing more comforts for their passengers.

Some of the largest lines of New England and the middle west committed to the last introduction of lower rates, despite the fact that the experience of the roads of the south and west in taking this step proved that it was both practicable and profitable.

Not until the Interstate Commerce Commission put all the roads of the country on the same reduced fare basis did the eastern lines cut their rates, and already they have found that their revenues have been greatly increased.

LLOYD GEORGE'S WARNING

According to David Lloyd George, wartime premier of Great Britain, Europe is "following the same steps which led in 1914 into the fires of Gehenna."

In criticizing the policies of the present British cabinet, he charges that "despair permeates and vitiates all the acts of the national government," while of the League of Nations he says: "The charters of the League have been overturned in the ditch, driven by wobbling, unskilled drivers, while the dictators are driving faster—in chariots of war, with flags flying."

Europe may well pause and ponder when such words of warning come from a man who ranks among the world's keenest and most far-sighted statesmen.

In the face of warning such as this, and others uttered by those in every country who see the devil's brew that is in the making, the governments of Europe continue on the headlong way that has brought them to the verge of another great conflict. Nations are frenziedly arming, rushing through "defensive" pacts, and, for the most part, laying the basis for suspicion and misunderstanding, rather than directing their efforts toward the preservation of peace.

The outbreak of the World War came spontaneously in 1914 because Europe was ripe for it. The chief danger in the present jittery condition of Europe is that the same situation exists in aggravated form—and nobody knows when the spark to ignite another great conflagration may come.

Thirteen states now have statutes against hitch-hiking, but we suppose a ride-thunder could be carried through in Bond.

All existing lie-detectors have their limitations. They show nothing in the case of a candidate who has said it so often he has convinced himself.

World's Window

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Vimy Ridge.

After the great pilgrimage of the American Legion to Europe some years ago, the Canadians are revisiting their battlefields this year. The Canadian government is inaugurating a national monument on Vimy ridge in the presence of King Edward. Vimy ridge, dominating the plain of Flanders, was stormed by the Canadian corps and taken after the Army of Morocco had failed. I have been back several times to the spot, not only to see the monument progressed, but to sit there and think it all over again. The shrubbery had grown back against the slopes. The air is still and on a summer evening you can hear the bells of a score of villages answer each other through the twilight. It takes a strong imagination to bring back to mind something of the scene of that day in 1917 when every hour more shelling came over this hill and churned its crest. There had been in the whole of the South African war. I doubt if any ex-soldiers in that Canadian pilgrimage this year could recognize much of the No Man's Land where they blundered along their way in the storms and rain and mud and Very lights and snipers and coy shell-holes on the night patrols of 1917. I found a place to sit last year where it was once instant death to lift your head.

The French Peasants.

It is possible, I know it happened to me, that a trans-Atlantic visitor feels somewhat strange and a little resentful when he comes to the Chateau-Thierry, Vimy, Gevinsy, Fesubert, and so many others which have in our minds become interwoven with thoughts of sacredness and sacrifice, and encounters amongst the French peasants a cold, shoulder-shrugging indifference. We forget, however, that what is to us almost holy ground, halcyon to the memory of so many of our youth, is to the French just another truck garden or a meadow. They are here every day. In what is to us a field of glory they live and work and labor and sweat. And woe the man who steps carelessly between their rows of vegetables. The peasants will halt him with an angry shout: "Alions, tu vas nous abîmer nos betteraves!" (Go, you are spoiling our beets!) Don't walk on the beet roots. This land is also sacred to those peasants. It is their all in all and a living thing; not a cemetery as it is to the occasional visitor from far away.

Straying Pilgrims.

Perhaps some of the pilgrims from Canada this year will stray away a little like so many Americans did, to look for family and friends, to find comrades who speak the same language. Sixty thousand Germans visit the old battlefields in summer. They do it quietly, between the rows of crosses, dry-eyed, staring at the weather-beaten inscription on a weathered cross. Yes, the glory fades in these surroundings. All the stories of courage and heroism and comradeship seem of so little consequence when you ride or walk past one of the 3,000 military cemeteries behind the old battle line. All is peaceful and lovely there now. For the weary traveler, yet here death lay in ambush for each one in every shell hole, merciful, and making men merciless in turn. . . . Battalions, regiments, divisions swarmed by here, crowded into spaces of ground, which are now meadows or cultivated fields, but which were the front line, to be pounded to bits in a few hours' time. Fritz von Untch said once that the tiniest of these French hamlets are memorials to heroic battles to which the history of the world can find no parallel. Vimy is one of them. But let us not forget, also, that the dust drank the blood of the youth of North America. What price is Canada's glory? I shall tell what was lost to the world when on the children of these French hamlets are memorials to heroic battles to which the history of the world can find no parallel. Vimy is one of them. But let us not forget, also, that the dust drank the blood of the youth of North America. What price is Canada's glory? TATE WRIGHT DENIES PLAN TO SPLIT VOTE

Fortson Manager Issues
Statement on Editorial in Dallas New Era.

With reference to the reproduction in Sunday's Constitution of an article from the Dallas New Era urging that the anti-Talmadge forces center on Rivers for governor as the leader of those opposed to the principles of the Talmadge administration, the following reply is sent to The Constitution from Tate Wright, of Athens, Fortson manager:

"Editor Constitution: I notice that the Dallas New Era, a newspaper supporting Mr. Rivers for governor, says that Judge Blanton Fortson was put into the governor's race to split the anti-Talmadge vote, and the editor questions Judge Fortson's sincerity in opposing the present administration and supporting the Roosevelt policies.

"For the benefit of the editor of the Dallas New Era I shall refer him to the record.

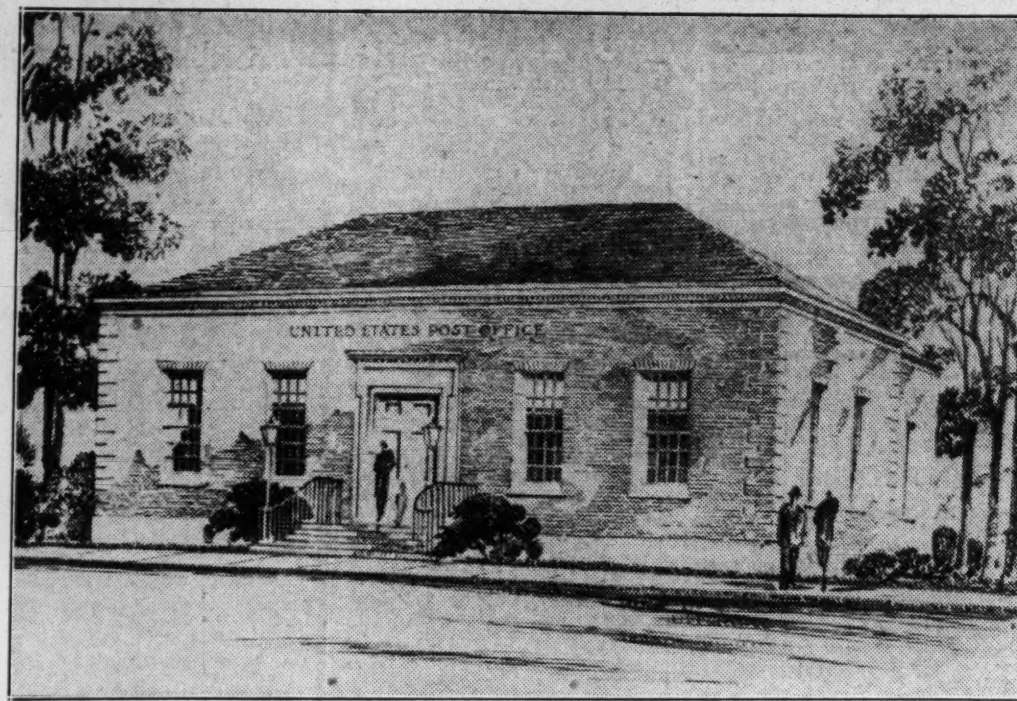

"His insinuation that Judge Fortson was put into the race to split the anti-Talmadge vote does not stand up upon examination of the facts. The Macon convention that nominated Judge Fortson as a candidate for governor was attended by more than 1,500 democrats of this state, representing 152 counties.

"Rivers at Convention. "Mr. Rivers was represented in this convention by a large bloc of delegates, pledged to 'go down the line' for him. If that convention was held to 'split the anti-Talmadge vote' why did Speaker Rivers participate in it and seek its nomination? Why did the lieutenants of Speaker Rivers take part in the convention and communicate with people all over the state urging that they vote for the nomination of Mr. Rivers when they got to the convention?

"Not a single delegation was pledged to support any candidate prior to the convention with the exception of those who went to the convention pledged to Judge Larsen and Speaker Rivers. The Clarke county delegation did not know for whom it would vote until the convention itself instructed the delegates to caucus and decide for whom they should vote. When it appeared that many of the delegates from other counties considered Judge Fortson the logical man to receive the convention's nomination, the Clarke delegation was delighted to join others in the convention in supporting the movement within the convention to draft him for the race.

Attended As Delegate. "As to my part in that convention, I went merely as a delegate and did nothing to do with its organization. I was pleased and honored to serve as a member of the platform committee, of which the Hon. H. M. McIntosh, editor of the Albany Herald and member of the Dougherty county delegation which voted for Mr. Rivers, was chairman. I am sure no one would accuse Mr. McIntosh of being a party to a movement to split the anti-Talmadge vote, nor would anyone attribute such motives to the Hon. Philip Weller, the Hon. Charles J. Payne, editor of the Macon Evening News, or the Hon. Robert T. Persons.

Postoffice Building To Be Erected in College Park

Here is an architect's drawing of the proposed postoffice in College Park. The building will face on South Main street. It will be of colonial design faced with red-face brick and terra cotta trim. On the first floor in the front there will be a large public lobby with terrazzo floor, marble wainscot, plaster walls and vaulted plaster ceiling. The postoffice screen containing the service windows, lock boxes, etc., will separate the lobby from the postoffice workroom. A loading platform for the workroom is provided at the side of the building. Bids on the building were received last week. Associated Press photo.

of Forsyth, all four of whom attended the convention that nominated Judge Fortson and whose delegates by a rising vote unanimously promised him their support.

"When Governor Talmadge was bitterly denouncing the Roosevelt administration, opposing with all his power the democratic administration's farm program and when many of the newspapers now so loudly proclaiming their allegiance to Roosevelt were saying nothing and when the silence of Speaker Rivers himself was so thick it could be cut with a butter knife, Judge Fortson made speeches and published articles in defense of Roosevelt policies throughout this state. And so effective were they, so powerful in their reasoning that the democratic national committee used them in its national publicity.

"I am assisting in the campaign of Judge Fortson because I know him to be a man of honor, of courage, of broad vision and unquestioned ability.

LEFTIST WRECK BUSES, STREET CARS IN FRANCE

MARNEILLE, Aug. 3.—(P)—A thousand parading leftist workmen today overturned a dozen street cars and wrecked the motors of eight buses in protest against increased fares. The workmen surrounded the street cars and advised all passengers to get out before the cars were pushed over. Then they halted the buses and tore out parts of the motors.

Have the Child's Eyes Examined Before SCHOOL Begins

It is a well known fact that a large percent of the school children are handicapped in their studies by defective vision. And, that often the deficiency is unknown to the parents until disclosed by low marks.

Only by having your child's eyes properly examined can you be certain that it, too, is not handicapped. Our examinations are scientific and accurate.

NEW STATE HOSPITALS ADVOCATED BY LARSEN

Three More Institutions in Georgia Urged in Clyde Speech.

CLYDE, Ga., Aug. 3.—Construction of hospitals in at least three sections of the state to afford accommodations for those who are not able to travel to the hospital centers was advocated here today by Judge W. W. Larsen, of Dublin, candidate for Governor.

"Dr. O. B. Howell, of Butts county, in a recent address suggested the advisability of establishing hospitals in about three sections of the state so it would be possible to offer treatment and emergency operations to people unable to pay for them at private institutions," said Judge Larsen.

"I believe this suggestion is a good one and I will recommend consideration of such plan to the general assembly. 'Every well person in the state is an asset to it, but the disabled ones are not. It, therefore, behooves every citizen of the state to see that our population is at all times physically fit. Ample provision is made both by the state and federal government to care for logs and cows and we certainly should be willing to do as much for our fellow men as we are for the animals he owns.

Judge Larsen also advocates a thorough reorganization of the state highway department to the end that the state should be divided into highway districts, and the commissioners thereof be elected by the people. "However, this does not mean that any of the employees of the department would be displaced. In fact, I am sure practically all of them would be retained in any reorganization. I believe the employees in many instances should be paid better wages than they are now receiving and I would endeavor to see that this is done. The highway department should be brought to the standard of efficiency required by the federal government.

MRS. R. M. MERRITT, 75,
OF LAVONIA, KILLED
ROYSTON, Ga., Aug. 3.—(P)—Mrs. R. M. Merritt, 75, of Lavonia, was killed today in an automobile accident near here. The car in which she was riding with her son, Ambry Merritt, of Athens, collided with another on a curve.

"We spend tax dollars teaching the people to grow things," the Governor said. "What does it help Georgia to cut down a ton of cotton and then import a ton from China's hands?"

Talmadge said he "hoped my campaign for the senate will hasten the payment to ginners of the extra cost incurred under the Bankhead act.

Worked for Farmers. Russell said he had worked in congress for legislation that would put money into the pockets of the farmers.

"It was inevitable mistakes would be made," he said. "Legislation of the character of the Bankhead act is always repulsive. But before that bill was renewed it was submitted to a vote of the farmers and they voted 8 to 1 for it."

Russell said he was instrumental in getting compensation for ginners for bookkeeping tasks under the bill in 1935. He pledged to continue efforts to secure similar compensation for 1934.

The meeting was called to order by Dr. L. B. Kennington, of Cochran, at 11 o'clock in the morning and the invocation was delivered by G. M. Lester, of Jackson, Miss., president of the National Ginners' Conference. W. B. Hartsfield, a candidate for mayor, in welcoming the delegates to the city, pointed out that Fulton county, although containing the largest city in Georgia, also contained more farms and farmers than any other county in the state.

The response to Hartsfield's address of welcome was delivered by W. H. Lovett, of Dublin, in behalf of the ginners.

In one of the principal addresses of the day President Lester pointed out the efforts that had been exerted to obtain government control of the re-payment to ginners of the extra costs for additional bookkeeping systems and bonding fees under the provisions and requirements of the Bankhead act. A banquet was held at 7 o'clock at the Piedmont hotel ballroom at which Thomas C. Law, Atlanta gin company executive, was the toastmaster.

MRS. J. C. HERRING, 61,
DIES AT MADRAS HOME
MADRAS, Ga., Aug. 3.—Mrs. J. C. Herring, 61, died today at her home here. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. T. E. Parks, St. Charles, Ga.; two sons, Marion C. Herring, College Park, and Clifford P. Herring, Madras; three sisters, Mrs. L. M. Smith, Anniston, Ala.; Mrs. D. P. Smith, Jacksonville, Fla.; and Mrs. B. F. Rosser, Hogansville; two brothers, W. D. Palmer, Atlanta; C. M. Palmer, Savannah.

Funeral services will be held from Jones' Chapel Methodist church, Madras, Ga., at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. G. J. Pittman will officiate. Interment will be in Oak Hill cemetery, Newnan.

RIVERS HITS RECORD OF CHARLES REDWINE

Candidate Calls on Foe To Point to 'One Constructive
Piece of Legislation.'

Speaker E. D. Rivers, of the house of representatives, launched what he said was the first major offensive of his gubernatorial campaign last night when he charged Senator Charles D. Redwine, the Talmadge candidate for governor, with "biting the hand that fed him" and called upon Redwine and his associates to point to "one constructive piece of legislation accomplished during their service in the general assembly."

The speaker of the house told a radio audience that Redwine, in 1933, borrowed a large sum from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to aid his Bank of Fayetteville and since that time "has staid and netted Governor Talmadge in every Talmadge effort to ruin President Roosevelt and the national democratic administration."

"Redwine thought President Roosevelt and the New Deal were angels sent down from heaven when they helped him out with $3,000,000 in 1933," the speaker declared. "He doesn't think so now because the President wants to aid the poor people and to give an old age pension to those who have spent their lives in a toil but who are not able to get anything from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The banker candidate of the C. I. O. is strangely silent about the RFC but in his speeches he tells the people of Georgia that he stands for everything Talmadge stands for and that the Talmadge regime in Georgia will go on uninterrupted if he is elected."

Demands Answer. Asking direct questions of Redwine as to his campaign manager, Representative J. Wesley Culppepper, of Fayette county, Speaker Rivers demanded that they tell the people of Georgia what they have to show for the service they have performed in the general assembly.

"Redwine and Culppepper have been in the senate and the house of representatives of Georgia off and on for more than 20 years," the Lakeland candidate asserted. "I call on them here and now to tell the people of Georgia one constructive service they have performed for their country or their state."

"These two men are too busy upholding the hand of Governor Talmadge as it attempts to destroy the work of the only President who has remembered that Georgia is part of the nation," he went on. "They won't tell you but I will. They have done exactly what they were paid for in their service in the general assembly was personal gain. The state has received nothing and poor old Fayette county, lying in one of the richest sections of Georgia, has received nothing."

"Look at State Pay Roll." "Look at the state pay roll today. On it you find B. D. Murphy, Redwine's campaign manager, drawing down $5,000 a year as an assistant attorney general. On it you find Culppepper's daughter, and other kindred and kinsmen of the Redwine family no number of members."

"Down at Forsyth, Robert T. Persons, the head of the bank there, is telling folks that some years ago Redwine made a loan for his bank from the Persons bank. He tells you that along about the middle of the year Banker Redwine showed up with $3,000 on his obligations and that he was letting the people know that Redwine had any money at that time of year. Mr. Persons will tell you that Redwine told him that he made money up around the capitol at Atlanta with Gene and lobbying for various companies. So that's what Talmadge has picked out for his successor, a lobbyist who brazenly admits that he makes his money up around the capitol lobbying with Gene."

Speaker Rivers further asserted that he had been reliably informed that Redwine was in the highway contracting business and that he has had a large slice of the millions of dollars in federal highway money expended over the years.

Says Doors Locked. "Of course such a charge as this I cannot substantiate for the very reason that the books of the highway department have not been investigated by anyone save Talmadge henchmen," he asserted. "I wish I could tell you about this and a lot of other things I hear. But the doors are locked to me and my friends. I can only say that he is a most frequent visitor at the state highway department. And he couldn't be there in the interest of the roads in his county because it doesn't have any."

"I intend to talk some more about Banker Redwine as this campaign progresses," Speaker Rivers declared. "I want the people to have the benefit of all of the knowledge I can glean about this candidate. I told you some time ago that I would say nothing but kind things against the two other candidates for governor, but I feel that I would be failing in my duty as a citizen of the state of Georgia if I went through this campaign without letting the people know the kind of a man Talmadge is trying to run down their throats as his candidate for governor."

The address of Speaker Rivers was delivered before a meeting of his friends and supporters on the roof of the Ansley hotel here and broadcast through radio station WSB.

Following the address, Speaker Rivers left for Vidalia, where today he speaks at ceremonies marking the opening of the tobacco season in that section.

POLITICAL FORUM

Democratic Women Invite Candidates To Speak.

Candidates for the offices of governor and attorney general of Georgia will address the second of four political rallies sponsored by the Georgia Women's Democratic Club to be held at the Ansley hotel at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Wellington Stevenson, president of the club, announced yesterday.

Besides the speeches, the program will include a series of songs by Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Fowler, invocation by the Rev. William V. Gardner, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and accordion selections by George Leonard.

The meetings are open to all voters, Mrs. Stevenson said.

SAVINGS BODY FORMED. Vidalia, Ga., Aug. 3.—(P)—The Vidalia Federal Savings and Loan Association, recently chartered, will elect officers and adopt by-laws at a meeting Thursday. M. F. Brice was chairman of the organization committee.

Pennsylvania Senate Removes Signs of Unemployment Army

State Body Will End 14-Week Special Session; Point Out
Assembly Is Pledged To Enact $50,500,000
Tax Program.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 3.—(P) Employees of the state senate ripped down banners of the "jobless army" late today, while leaders of the pickets rallied reinforcements for a last-ditch fight for $100,000,000 relief.

Officials of the senate said the streamers and flags, bearing crudely painted signs calling upon "the workers" to "fight for your rights," "we are starving, seek the rich and feed the poor," and a variety of appeals and threats, were removed because the 14-week special session is to end this week.

They pointed out that the assembly is pledged to enact a $50,500,000 tax program of which $45,000,000 would be spent for relief.

The speaker of the house said that the senate would be expected to serve notice that they would insist upon $100,000,000, or 64 cents per day per person for every one of the state's more than 600,000 unemployed. That would be about twice as much as they now receive.

Officials of the state emergency relief board said the $3,000,000 for emergency relief last week probably would be exhausted in the next day or so. Some members of the legislature predicted that the relief funds would be transferred without controversy because the tax program has been agreed upon.

Hereafter the Earle administration is expected to transfer from special funds, pending enactment of the revenue measure.

New delegations came in today and capitol guards said some were from New Jersey and Delaware. The unemployed said they would picket the senate with "new vigor," for almost two weeks, several hundred men, women and a dozen or more small children have "occupied" the senate gallery, dividing their time between singing and cheering, and peering and booing the senators. They have eaten and slept in the balcony and twice have attempted to "rush" the senate floor.

They were permitted to sit in the gallery by Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy, who also is international secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America.

Tonight he will be replaced by John Homsher, veteran legislator from Lancaster county, president of the senate. Homsher, who left last week for Europe, Homsher warned today that there must be "no disorder in the gallery and that work of the senate is not to be disturbed by noise."

Leaders of the jobless army, who have an office on the fourth floor of the state house, overtook the picketed rout, issued a statement saying: "The legislature merely has promised to pass the bills for $50,500,000. The bills have not been passed. We have been fooled before. Therefore, we intend to stay here until we see the tax bills passed. We also have a plan to force the legislature to fight for twice that appropriation, for even $100,000,000 would barely assure us a decent standard of living."

SANDERSVILLE CROWD HEARS JUDGE FORTSON

Gubernatorial Candidate Attacks Aims of Rivals in Southeast Georgia.

SANDERSVILLE, Ga., Aug. 3.—A large crowd greeted Judge Blanton Fortson here tonight on his first appearance in southeast Georgia as the candidate declared:

"We are going forward in this campaign to restore the state government to the people and put an end to disorder. We must and will make our government serve the people themselves instead of the interests that have so long regarded politics merely as a means to personal profit."

Fortson was introduced by J. Paxson Amis, lawyer, who said: "Washington county is interested in Judge Fortson and supporting him for Governor because we believe he is the best man in the race. And from everywhere in Georgia we learn that the people are interested in the best man in the leading man."

Living Standards. Fortson declared "Georgia must pay more attention to raising the standard of living of its people, and less attention to destructive politics. I entered this race in response to the nomination of the Macon convention of 1,600 democrats representing 152 counties who drafted and adopted a platform that any man or woman should be proud to advocate. The time has come in Georgia when we are going to do away with practices that are opposed to the best interests of the people.

"One of the things we are going to banish in Georgia," he said, "is the type of politician who tells the people that such fraudulent legislation as the 13-mill tax limitation amendment was enacted for their benefit; who wants to reduce the taxes of those who can afford to pay and, in the same breath, promise the poor man public services for which the poor man himself will have to pay.

Appeals to Thrift. "And Georgia is going to make it hard for another type of politician to thrive. He is the kind who appeals to the sense of thrift and economy latent in every citizen, promises to reduce taxes and thus leave us with more to spend for other and more pleasant desires. But he does not educate our children and thus leaves us with the burden of supporting a generation of idle mouths without which our lives and health and property would not be secure. We are going to make it hard for people who use either of these methods to get elected in Georgia."

Fortson speaks at Vidalia tomorrow. Mr. Vernon, president of Vidalia, Friday night over WSB; Saturday at Eatonton; Monday, at Sylvester; Tuesday, August 11, at Cordelle.

$45,000 ROAD DAMAGE IS CAUSED BY STORM

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Aug. 3.—(P)—Last week's hurricane caused $45,000 in damage to state roads in the Gulf coast area, state road department officials estimated today.

The route connecting Panama City and Fort Walton (Route 115), will be closed to traffic for about 30 days it was said. A northern route through the Gulf coast area, state road department officials estimated today.

TROOPS INSTRUCTED FOR U. S. WAR GAMES

Wednesday 'Red' and 'Blue'
Forces Will 'Clash' in Fake Battle.

FT. KNOX, Ky., Aug. 3.—(AP)—While 20,000 troops assigned to the unarmored army received intensive training and detailed instructions today in preparation for war games, Colonel Bruce Palmer, commander of the mechanized "red" forces, paraded the power of his 450 modern war machines and 2,200 men through the dust clouds of Henry Dodge field.

Major General William E. Cole, commander of the fifth corps area, arrived and assumed command of the "blue" forces. He reviewed 80 planes from Selfridge field, Michigan, which demonstrated bombardment, attack and pursuit maneuvers. Officers said the planes were ordered to Selfridge field and to Patterson field, Dayton, Ohio, for the night.

Colonel Palmer's forces formed a parade three and a half miles long, each man riding a truck, combat car, armored automobile, motorcycle or other vehicle. The array included the United States first cavalry, mechanized; the 68th field artillery, mechanized; first battalion, 19th field artillery, motorized, and 201st infantry, West Virginia National Guards, motorized.

Tomorrow will wind up preparations for the theoretical war. Wednesday each side will mobilize its forces for action, and combat maneuvers will continue Thursday, Friday and Saturday over a battle area of nearly 80,000 acres.

The nature of the maneuvers, an official announcement said, will make it practically impossible for the public to witness the war games this week. Roads will be closed to civilian traffic in the area, while action begins on a 15-mile front.

ONE BOAT REMAINS ON MISSING LIST

Ketchum, Still Unreported,
Lost in Florida Storm Last Week.

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Only one boat of the several for which search was begun after the hurricane last week remained on the missing list today.

She is the 38-foot auxiliary schooner Ketchum, under the command of St. Petersburg. The vessel, with four men aboard, was in the storm area.

The fishing schooner Seagull returned to Tampa today, its captain reporting it had found a safe harbor and weathered the hurricane without difficulty. Coast guardsmen had searched for the sailing boat since the storm's passage.

M. B. Jones, of Carrabelle, reported that 13 Cuban fishing smacks put into port there in advance of the storm and all escaped serious damage. One, the Raul of Havana, lost two anchors and was blown around. Other craft towed it into deep water. An inspection revealed no heavy repairs needed, Jones said.

Another Cuban fishing craft, the Adelaide, was carried for 200 miles through the Gulf of Mexico by the storm and blown around near Destin, Fla. Its crew was safe.

SEGMENT OF STREET DAMAGED BY CAVE-IN

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 3.—(AP)—A large section of Henley street, one of the city's principal uptown thoroughfares, caved in today, tumbling one parked automobile and many tons of concrete pavement into a hole 30 feet deep.

The cave-in occurred only a few yards from the Church Street Methodist Church building.

A Huff Ruble, salesman, was driving on Henley at the time. He swerved his car and crashed into a pole to avoid plunging into the pit.

BUTCHER HELD FOR MURDER

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Newt Rogers, 43-year-old Ware Shoals butcher, was held in the state penitentiary today after his arrest on charge of killing his 18-year-old daughter, Lula.

Railroad Association Counsel Speaks Here

Railroad Outlook Held Promising By General Counsel for U. S. Body

Prophesying that railroads can hope to equal in November, 1936, the freight loading total of November, 1931, Judge R. V. Fletcher, vice president and general counsel of the Association of American Railroads, voiced a note of optimism in his address to the Atlanta Traffic Club at its monthly luncheon meeting yesterday afternoon.

The loading of revenue freight on American railroads for the first 30 weeks of 1936 was greater than in any corresponding period since 1931. Judge Fletcher told assembled Atlanta transportation men. Compared with the same period in 1935, the speaker continued, "the increase is more than 2,000,000 cars, or 11.7 per cent. As an index of improved conditions generally, this showing is encouraging since the figures show that miscellaneous freight, which includes manufactured products, has increased 15.6 per cent."

Increases in carloadings have been reflected in improved earnings, the judge said. He explained that gross income for the first six months of this year was 14.5 per cent more than the first six months of 1935. Though operating expenses and taxes have shown a decided upward tendency, according to the speaker, net income of the railroads has increased because of an increase of efficiency of railroad managements.

"Net railway operating income shows a greater percentage of increase than gross revenue in the face of increased expenses, the judge continued, 'because of the operating efficiency increases. It should be borne in mind that this considerable increase in expense is due in considerable part to larger expenditures for maintenance of way and equipment,' he added.

Judge Fletcher said that though revenue was on the increase, and that though carloadings were on the upgrade, other problems confronted the railroads. He believed that with the main fight against the depression over, the government should curtail some of its control of the railroads.

Carrier Act Praised.

"No one should conclude that railroads are no longer confronted with serious problems," the judge declared. In part their problems grew out of the business depression. They were, however, intensified by new forms of competition, unregulated and government subsidized. To a certain extent this inequality has been removed by enactment of the federal motor carrier act of 1935.

Solution of the problem of equality between different modes of transportation, the judge concluded, would only be reached through legislation placing equal restrictions on all carriers of freight and passengers.

Judge Fletcher made a special trip to Atlanta from his headquarters in Washington, D. C., to address the club.

TWIN SISTERS KILLED WHEN STRUCK BY CAR

CLEARWATER, Fla., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Josephine Brown and Mrs. Charlotte Hasencamp, 28-year-old twin sisters, were struck by an automobile and instantly killed here tonight.

Magistrate F. L. Gates said the machine was driven by Miss Maybelle Geiselman, 24, employed at Pinellas county courthouse. Miss Geiselman was reported under a doctor's care. E. T. Griffin, a railroad employee who saw the accident, said the twins were crossing the street when struck. He found himself powerless to shout a warning of danger, he said.

Magistrate Gates empaneled a coroner's jury. The verdict was deferred until tomorrow.

Mrs. Brown's husband was said to be in Nova Scotia. Mrs. Hasencamp was a widow. A son, Rob, aged 17, survives her. The son is a star high school football player.

MAN ADMITS SLAYING OF WIFE AND ESCORT

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Lieutenant Sam Strautz, night chief of police, announced today John Hamilton had made oral admission he shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Wilma Woods Hamilton, and Thomas Grissom, Sunday.

Strautz said Hamilton told of the killing after hours of questioning. The police officer also quoted Hamilton saying he had thrown his pistol, and one taken from Grissom, in a lake south of the city. A search was begun for the weapons.

AIRLINE TO BUILD TRANSPORT FLEET

Program for Spending $2-
500,000 Will Include Research Work.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Jack Frye, president of Transcontinental & Western Airlines, Inc., disclosed an airplane building program tonight involving an expenditure of $2,500,000. Frye said nearly $2,000,000 of the sum will be applied to building the nucleus of a fleet of "super-transport" aircraft, to develop research in four-engine transport planes, and to experiment in "over-weather" flight with special equipment.

He said T. W. A. engineers and the engineering staff of the Douglas Aircraft Corporation had joined to design a plane incorporating features suggested by pilots and passengers during a two-year survey.

Accommodations for 23 passengers, a special kitchen, new sound-proofing devices, and sleeper arrangements are called for.

Frye said the new fleet is expected to be in service within six months. The planes will be rated 50 per cent larger than the present T. W. A. Douglas equipment, Frye indicated. More than $350,000 will be spent on converting present equipment to higher horsepower.

France Seeks Fiscal Collaboration In Contab With Reichsbank Head

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A first step in a three-point program of cooperation on France's fiscal troubles was taken tonight by Emile Labeyrie, governor of the Bank of France, in a meeting with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the German Reichsbank. Later, Labeyrie will see the banking heads of Holland and England.

Labeyrie is on a mission of "stabilization." This was variously interpreted in Paris when he left.

The government of Premier Leon Blum is committed to defend the present value of the franc—6.83 cents—but for more than a year there has been a hot fight in France over the danger of a forced devaluation because the government lacks funds and borrows heavily.

(French governmental financiers long have contended France ought not to devalue—if that course ever were taken—unless Great Britain and the United States agreed not to devalue further and agreed to co-operate in the stabilization of the franc at a new rate.)

In Holland, Governor Labeyrie is expected to see Dr. L. J. A. Trip, governor of the Bank of The Netherlands, who also is president of the Bank for International Settlements.

In England, the French authority plans to confer with Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England. (France, Holland and Switzerland are considered the three principal European gold standard nations and any change in the status of any of the three countries, it was felt, would have to be accomplished after a mutual understanding.)

"His conference with his London colleague, Montagu Norman, will be the most important part of Labeyrie's international mission," it was said, "for on the attitude of Great Britain depends the solution of monetary problems and alignment of money."

The French national debt in five years increased 70,000,000,000 francs to 340,000,000,000 francs and the national income dwindled to 150,000,000,000 francs annually from 245,000,000,000 francs five years ago.

(The 10,000,000,000-franc tourist trade dropped to 1,500,000,000 francs because of the high price of the franc in terms of foreign devalued currencies, and foreign trade sank to 36,000,000,000 francs from about 95,000,000,000 francs five years ago.)

Crowds Throng Sterchi's For Opening of Annual August Sale

Thousands of housefurnishings buyers gave an eager reception to the opening of Sterchi's August Sale yesterday as they crowded the aisles of this large store at 116-120 Whitehall street.

Record sales in every department ushered in the season's most important furniture event as patrons enthusiastically endorsed the firm's value-giving policy by buying heavily in all lines.

Customers were showing a marked preference for the many new bedroom and living room suite arrivals. Purchases in these two departments reached a peak hitherto unattained by the store in any one day's selling. Patrons repeatedly expressed their amazement and pleasure at finding so tremendous a variety from which to choose.

For this sale, Sterchi's had emphasized their position as the South's largest Homefurnishings store, by further increasing their stocks in all departments.

Sterchi's Rug and Drapery departments followed suites closely in volume, offering many unusual values; particularly in Axminster Rugs and Broadloom Carpeting. Naturally all sale specialties featured yesterday are to be continued today when the store is sure to duplicate Monday's feat of attracting thousands of patrons.

Free Storage, Decorating Service without charge; prepayment of freight on purchases to any point in Georgia and Budget Terms are a few of the many Sterchi services that add to the store's prestige and popularity.—(adv.)

Southern's Large Attendance Increase Credited to Night Ball

Georgia-Florida

AMERICUS, Ga., Aug. 3.—The American Cardinals charged out of the Georgia-Florida league cellar with a 7-6 victory over the champion Tallahassee Capitals here this afternoon.

Coming from behind with a five-run rally in the seventh the Cards edged as early Capital lead and answered their third straight game over the Floridians. Pinch hitter Nick Wright's double brought home the tying run in the seventh, while Eddie Grayson's one-batter in the same inning was the payoff blow as West scurried across the plate.

LEAGUE DRAWS LARGEST GATE IN FOUR YEARS

Comparative Figures Show 21 Per Cent Increase Over 1935.

By Herbert Caldwell, Director, Southern Association News Service.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Fans a million to a night baseball, better baseball and a general improvement in conditions in the south, the Southern league, "Old Faithful" of the minors, will return this season to the "million a season attendance" for the first time since 1931.

From 1920 through 1931 the Southern league was in the "million class." Figures compiled by James Sanders, secretary of the association, including games of July 28, reveal some encouraging facts to Southern league managers and minor league baseball throughout.

The revelation is that minor league baseball is coming back and coming back in a big way.

Comparative figures show a total increase of 149,877 or 21 per cent over the same period and approximately the same number of games in 1935.

Through July 28, five clubs have drawn a larger attendance than during the 1935 season. These clubs are Birmingham, Chattanooga, Knoxville, Nashville and New Orleans.

Little Rock shows a material increase and nearly equal to last season's total. Atlanta, after setting a league record of 330,795 accompanying a pennant last season, is slightly off as is customary under the circumstances.

Memphis, for the first time in 15 years seemingly destined to finish out of the first division, has had a slump in attendance compared to last season.

Birmingham, playing night baseball, has drawn 32,678 more; Chattanooga, in its first year of night ball, has drawn 32,678 more; and New Orleans also having its baptism of baseball under the lights, has drawn 39,555 more.

Memphis is playing for the first time at night. Little Rock, Atlanta and Nashville had nocturnal parties at home last season. Knoxville is the only city without lights.

Atlanta, making its second straight bid for the championship, is leading the league in attendance with the respectable figure of 226,112 or nearly 100,000 over Birmingham, second with 128,551.

The largest total yearly attendance was 1,531,570 in 1925.

Comparative figures including games of July 28, 1936:

CLUB	1935	1936	Inc. or Dec.	Total
Atlanta	253,850	226,112	-27,738	330,795
Birmingham	65,292	128,551	63,259	174,841

Reds Plan School For South's Rookies

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Ambitious young baseball players of Tennessee and other southern states will have a chance to receive instruction this fall from Charley Dressen, doughty manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

Dressen, George Kelly, Tom Sheehan and Wally Dashiell, other Cincinnati hirings, will conduct a baseball school at Sulphur Dell October 13-20.

The quartet plan to hold three other schools during the fall at Peoria, Ill., Tyler, Texas, and Cincinnati.

Warren Will Play Alpharetta Tonight

Warren will play Alpharetta, Ga., at the Warren athletic field tonight at 8:30. The visitors have one of the best amateur records in the state and promise a hot game for the fast refrigerator makers.

Either Jesse Feaster or Mel Rucker will take the mound for Warren, while Spence is scheduled to start for the invaders.

Warren plays Atlantic Steel at the Warren field Friday night.

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—(By Wireless)—The heritage of the cotton fields and cane brakes of the south and the foothills of the Ozark mountains of Missouri dominated the second day of the Olympic show.

Herr Hitler was alternately elated and depressed at the changing tides of Nordic supremacy. On the male side it was a darktown parade as Jesse Owens equalled the Olympic record in winning the finals in the 100-meter run on a slow track after a day of rain and cold wind, with Metcalfe second and Ossendard, of Holland, third.

Owens ran on a slow track after a day of rain and cold wind, with Metcalfe second and Ossendard, of Holland, third. Owens ran a remarkable race under the conditions, with Metcalfe coming on like a storm surfer in the last 30 yards.

Before another packed crowd, Helen Stephens, of Fulton, Mo., stole the show in the women's 100 meters. Stephens, a double for Babe Didrikson, stands five feet, 11; weighs 136 pounds, and is 19 years old. She broke two world's women's records in two starts. She has a deep bass voice, a Missouri drawl and a stride equal to any man in this field.

In the first heat she broke the world's record, 11 6-10 seconds, by running far away from the field in 11 4-10 seconds. She impresses me as a combination of Babe Didrikson and Dizzy Dean. She is likely to run over all competitors in her way from now on.

Stephens and Jesse Owens may be winners in three events before the show closes. Outside of Stephens, the Ozark hurricane, the day was darktown on parade. A heavy black shadow fell over the Nordics with Herr Hitler looking on.

Hitler was rooting for the Germans like a Yale sophomore at a Harvard game. You could almost hear him saying, block that kick, held 'em Yale, with complete depression when the Germans dropped. He enjoyed his greatest moment when Karl Hein set a new Olympic hammer throw record of 185 feet, 4 inches, with Edwin Black, also of Germany, placing second.

Our hammer throwers, like our shot putters, looked like somebody serving fried eggs. Both the United States shot putters and hammer throwers were completely third-grade and outclassed.

Germany was highly elated at the end of the second day. She had six flags at the Olympic masthead against five for the Americans, and four of these were contributed by the negro entries, Owens, Metcalfe, Johnson and Albritton. In addition, the long-legged Woodruff, of Pittsburgh, ran away with the 800-meter run, qualifying 19 yards in front of his field in the fastest test. Dark-skinned athletes are almost sure to win six firsts. The paler skins have been slow and lagging.

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Max Schmeling, setting out on his second attempt to bring the world's heavyweight boxing crown to Germany, said tonight he will leave for America Wednesday on the air liner Hindenburg to begin training for his September bout with Champion James J. Braddock.

The fighter, who said his physical condition is just as good as when he went to America last April to spring one of the biggest surprises in fight history by defeating the negro, Joe Louis, classes Braddock as an even more formidable foe than the erstwhile Brown Bomber.

160-yard eighth at City park. He smacked his ball with a four iron. It trickled into the hole! Imagine his disappointment when he discovered the tournament doesn't start for two weeks.

SARATOGA SALES PUT FINE HORSES ON BLOCK TODAY

By Orlo Robertson.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The never-ending search of thoroughbred owners for another Man-o-War, a Gallant Fox, an Equipoise or a Twenty Grand gets underway tomorrow night when the first of several hundred yearlings go under the hammer at the opening of the Saratoga sales.

In the same ring where Man-o-War was knocked down for $50,000 last year, the pick of the yearling colts and fillies from America's leading breeding farms will be sold under the two-week auction that rivals the racing at the nearby track in color and interest.

Annually society turns out in force for the friendly battle of check books. Often it takes only the taste of two bidders for the color or conformation of a horse to send the bidding into the thousands.

Often the cheapest horses have proven the best investment. Case in point: Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, of Chicago, only $10,000 last year, but already the colt has won $37,765, and is well on his way to the two-year-old championship.

Mrs. W. A. Bridges, of New York, paid only $150 for Golden F, but the filly has earned $16,270. Two years ago Marshall Field took Tintal out of the ring for $5,100 and won the $100,000 Belmont future.

Split Second was only $1,000 yearling, but she has won 25 times her purchase price for the King Ranch.

The sales open with the disposal of 24 colts and fillies from C. V. Whitney's stable. The master of the light blue and brown-topped silks is disposing of a large number of yearlings for the first time, having announced his intention of reducing the size of his stable. Included in the lot are offspring of St. Germans, sire of Twenty Grand, Bold Venture; Pennant, grand sire of Equipoise and Rain to the race, and the get of Chico, Whicheon, Mad Hatter and others.

The high spot of the sales, however, will be the auction of the colts and fillies sired by Gallant Fox, one of the country's greatest young stallions. The consignment from William Woodward's stable, owner of the Ford, includes four offspring of the 1930 three-year-old champion, while A. B. Hancock's Claiborne stud offers eight of the Ford's offspring.

The Belair consignment goes under the hammer Thursday, while the Hancock group will feature the sales Friday. Thursday will see the auctioning of the entire yearling crop of Samuel D. Riddle's farm. Among the 34 to be sold are 18 offspring of Man-o-War.

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A virtual end to German-American trade was predicted here tonight as the result of a Nazi suspension of "aski" marks—special accounts for German payments abroad.

The Nazi government decreed an end to the use of the marks in settlement of American accounts, but permitted settlement of bills contracted prior to today.

Unless another working agreement is devised, an authoritative source said, trade between the United States and Germany will be at a standstill. American cotton and petroleum shippers were believed among those who would be hardest hit.

The initials comprising the German name for the special accounts: "Auslander Sonder Konten Inland."

They have been used for 60 per cent of the business hitherto conducted between Germany and the United States.

The decree was regarded in American circles here as a reprisal for American retaliation duties on German goods and requirements that German shippers to the United States declare what government subsidy they receive.

NAMED AT AUGUSTA. AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 3.—(AP)—E. A. Phillips will succeed the late Robert K. Weekly in the position of superintendent of municipal trees and parks department. Phillips was acting superintendent during the four months illness of Mr. Weekly.

SAVANNAH COMPANY GETS FEDERAL LOAN. WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Reconstruction Corporation reported today it had approved a $245,000 industrial loan to the Savannah River Lumber Company, of Savannah. The company originally applied for a $250,000 loan last March.

Georgians Plan 10-Day Pilgrimage To Annual Salem Camp Meeting

As a Salvation Army band blares forth notes of welcome, pilgrims from all sections of Georgia will begin arriving at the Salem camp ground in Newton county Friday morning to open an annual ten-day camp meeting season.

Bishop Warren A. Candler, for many years the Sunday preacher at Salem, will again fill this role, delivering the sermon on August 9. Commissioner Ernest I. Pugmire, southern territorial commander of the Salvation Army, will be in charge of the afternoon service. Dr. Wallace Rogers, presiding elder of the Decatur Oxford circuit, will be director general of the meeting and will secure preachers and lay leaders from all evangelical groups to visit the camp grounds and appear on the program.

Salvation Army Assistants. Brigadier Ernest H. Holtz has accepted our invitation to bring the Salvation Army leaders of this section to Salem this year and lead in an evangelistic series of meetings. Major Robert J. Guinn, member of the program committee, said.

Besides Brigadier Holtz, Salvation Army leaders appearing on the program will be Mrs. Holtz, Major and Mrs. Sidney Cox, Captain Eunice Ward and others. The Salvation Army band will give daily concerts, featuring the old-time hymns of the Christian religion.

Leaders of the camp meeting announced that tents already have been made ready for the camp and picnic tables set up, and that the spring has been cleaned.

Oldest in State. Salem camp ground is one of the oldest in the state, having been founded in 1828. It grew out of several camp meetings held on Honey Creek, Ebenezer and Bear creek and except for the four years during the Civil War annual meetings have been held. A tract of 60 acres was purchased and in 1854 the present stand was erected.

On the camp ground have been planted many trees that now bear the names of famous Georgians. Trees from the campuses of Mercer and Emory have been transferred to the Salem grounds.

Among famous preachers who have appeared on the Salem programs are Dr. Alexander Means, Dr. Lovett Pierce and Bishops James O. Andrew, George F. Pierce, Atticus G. Hagood, James E. Dickey and Warren A. Candler.

Experiments conducted by the federal government revealed that insect life exists as high as 20,000 feet in the air, or approximately four miles.

MRS. ALLISON GREENE PASSES AT RESIDENCE

Mother of Prominent Newspaperman Will Be Laid To Rest Today.

Mrs. Allison Lawson Greene, prominent Atlanta woman and resident of the city for 54 years, died late Sunday night at her residence, 642 Orme circle, N. E., at the age of 74.

She was the widow of the late Allison L. Greene, pioneer Atlantan and former member of city council, and was an active member of the North Avenue Presbyterian church. Mrs. Greene was the mother of Ward Storrs Greene, manager of King Features, Inc. He arrived here yesterday by plane to attend the funeral.

A native of Buffalo, N. Y., Mrs. Greene was the daughter of the late Charles Edward and Charlotte Storrs Rosebury, pioneer builders of Buffalo. She came to Atlanta as a bride in 1882 and had resided here ever since.

Surviving, in addition to her son, are two daughters, Mrs. Carol Greene Vaughan, Atlanta's two other sons, Charles Allison Greene, Beverly Hills, Cal., and Earle Rosebury Greene, New Holland, N. C.; five grandchildren, Allison Hoyle Adams, Atlanta; Georgia Hoyle Adams, Atlanta; Mrs. Charles Adams Wendt, Beverly Hills; Charles Allison Greene Jr., and Lucile Hawthorne Greene, Beverly Hills, and a great grandson, Peter Storrs Wendt, Beverly Hills.

CITY SEEKING COURSE BY TRAFFIC AUTHORITY

Safety Committee May Extend Invitation to Evanson Police Officer.

Invitations will be extended by the safety committee of city council to Lieutenant Frank M. Kreml, traffic law enforcement expert, to conduct a traffic school for Atlanta police officers, according to belief expressed yesterday by Captain Jack Malcolm, head of the traffic squad.

However, Captain Malcolm declared, it is probable that it will not be possible to hold a school here until some time after the first of the year. Lieutenant Kreml, who is in charge of traffic law enforcement at Evanston, Ill., is on leave of absence from the Evanston post and is touring the nation conducting the schools under the auspices of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

The expert's schedule is completely filled until Christmas time, Captain Malcolm said.

Captain Malcolm and Motorcycle Patrolmen M. L. Thomas, E. S. Elliott and Bevo Brooks have recently returned from one of the Kreml schools conducted at the University of Alabama. The course is for two weeks.

Due to the fact that the schools are sponsored by the international association one here would cost the local police department nothing, it was pointed out by Captain Malcolm.

About 50 officers would attend, it is expected.

Lieutenant Kreml will come here August 28 to address the Chamber of Commerce and it is expected that invitations will be extended to him at that time.

FLORIDA RECEIPTS SHOW INCREASE

Disbursements Also Raised; Revenues Derived From 148 Funds.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Aug. 3.—Receipts of the state treasury for the fiscal year ending June 30 showed an increase of $7,028,706.42 over the previous 12 months, while disbursements increased $6,022,611.46.

State Treasurer W. V. Knott reported the treasury had a balance of $4,944,408.47 at the end of the fiscal year.

Revenues came from 148 different funds. Income totaled $44,063,702.47 as against $37,035,006.05 for the year 1934-35. Disbursements amounted to $42,932,680.24, compared with $36,900,068.78.

The general revenue fund, with receipts of $12,069,288.85 and expenditures of $11,703,813.13 almost doubled the figures for the previous year. This fund had a balance of $1,153,837.87 on treasury ledgers.

Included in the general revenue receipts were $3,307,222.60 of estate taxes, of which $3,000,000 came from the estate of Alfred L. du Pont, of Jacksonville, and $2,540,761.25 on liquor, wines and beers.

Liquor taxes started June 26 of last year.

BOY FATALLY INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

Five-Year-Old Child, Crossing Marietta Street, Year's 38th Traffic Death.

Herman DeLong, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee DeLong, of 810 Curran street, was fatally injured yesterday morning when he was struck by an automobile as he and a child companion attempted to cross Marietta street at Jefferson street.

The child suffered a fracture of the skull, a fracture of the right shoulder and a broken leg. He died at Grady hospital yesterday afternoon.

His death is the thirty-eighth fatal accident to have occurred in the city limits of Atlanta since the first of the year and is the second fatal accident in the Greater Atlanta area in as many days. George Burton Daniel, 14, of Decatur, having been killed there when he was struck by a motorcycle.

The DeLong child was struck by an automobile driven, according to police, by Mrs. O. C. Brown, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Mrs. Brown, witnesses reported, was proceeding north on Marietta street at a moderate rate of speed at the time of the accident.

Ruby Williams, 5, of 812 Dillon street, was treated at Grady hospital for leg and head injuries suffered in the same accident and dismissed. Mrs. Brown was released on her own recognizance on charges of reckless driving. Her trial, originally set for yesterday afternoon in recorder's court, was postponed until today.

Betty Jane Anderson, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Anderson, of 43 Lake avenue, who was injured when her parents' car collided with another machine Sunday night on Glen Iris drive, at Highland avenue, was reported last night as improved at Grady hospital.

Improvement also was reported at the same hospital in the condition of Grayson Parker, 15, of 195 Warren street, N. E., who was hurt in a collision between two cars on Memorial drive, near Clifton street. Mrs. E. D. Bean, injured in the same accident, was reported dismissed after treatment.

THREE BIDS SUBMITTED FOR FULTON LAUNDRY

Bids for construction of a new laundry at Fulton tower to serve all county purposes were opened yesterday by Dr. Charles R. Adams, chairman of the county commission, and Frank R. Fling, clerk.

The United States Hoffman Machinery Corporation was low bidder for the project at $15,700, and next was the American Laundry Machinery Company at $16,800. The American Machine and Metals Manufacturing Corporation was highest with $16,931.

Contracts for the work will be taken up at the meeting of the commission tomorrow afternoon, Dr. Adams said. Bids must be approved by the state director of the WPA before the contracts are awarded.

CITIZEN SOLDIERS OPEN SERIOUS TRAINING HERE

The 530 men enrolled for citizens' military training at Fort McPherson began serious training yesterday after a delay caused by wet weather, army authorities announced yesterday.

Sunday a special service featuring "Success" was held for the C. M. T. C. boys. Lieutenant Colonel Fisher, post chaplain, delivered the sermon and was in charge of the services.

Health of the trainees was reported as "excellent" by the camp surgeon, who said that only six men answered sick call yesterday.

Sentiment Is Attached to Articles Missing From Paul Fleming Home

By Sally Forth.

THERE is always a let-down following a wonderful vacation trip, but one can hardly imagine a worst sensation than to return home and find said home in a state of wild confusion as a result of burglary.

But that was exactly the experience of Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Fleming and their daughter, Ellen, when they arrived last week at their Ponce de Leon avenue residence after an extensive trip to the west coast.

Many valuables were missing, including articles which, for sentimental reasons, will be impossible to replace. In this group was a handsome silver platter which was among wedding gifts received by Mr. and Mrs. Fleming and presented them by the First Presbyterian church. Another valuable missing was the lovely pearl and diamond ring belonging to Ellen, which was given her by her parents when she was of kindergarten age.

Added to the missing list were eight medals which Ellen had won at various times during her life. Four for excellence in Bible courses at North Avenue school, three in music, and one from her Sunday school. Many other valuables were stolen, but thanks to the forethought of Mrs. Fleming, the majority of silver, jewelry and other valuables were so well hidden that the intruder overlooked them.

The Fleming's trip was highlighted by their sojourn at Del Monte, Cal., where Ellen attended the A. D. P. convention from her chapter at the Florida State College for Women at Tallahassee, where she was vice president.

There were many gay times given for the visiting college girls, and the evening parties were more or less planned by officers from the Presidio at Monterey, who were very attentive to the visitors.

According to the Diamond Point, the news bulletin published during the convention, Ellen and the other southern belles adopted "Pardon My Southern Accent" as their theme song, which was received with great ovation from the "army" who completely surrounded them.

JACK, the white highland terrier belonging to Mrs. John D. Little, fully illustrates the maxim that "every dog has its day." He will accompany his owner on his tenth voyage across the Atlantic ocean when Mrs. Little sails on the S. S. Europa on August 9. Jack is a canine of high degree, who was born in England and seemingly likes his ocean trips just as much as his mistress.

Far be it from Jack to get ca sick even though he has to get four "sea legs" instead of the customary two. As soon as he

Miss Ellen Fleming Will Be Hostess To Popular Belles

Among prominent visitors scheduled for arrival this week will be Misses Susan Palmer, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Margaret Lyman, of Knoxville, Tenn., who will be the guests of Miss Ellen Fleming at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue.

Miss Palmer, who arrives today, is the daughter of E. L. Palmer and the late Mrs. Palmer and the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Willie Pope, prominent and pioneer residents of Atlanta. Mrs. Palmer was the former Miss Susie Mae Pope, a popular belle and beauty of Atlanta. Miss Palmer has been visiting Miss Virginia McCaslin in Memphis and en route to her Florida home will visit Miss Fleming. Both Misses Fleming and Palmer are members of the A. D. P. sorority at the Florida State College for Women at Tallahassee.

Miss Lyman arrives tomorrow and will spend a few days here with Miss Fleming en route to Fort Rening, where she will visit friends. She has a wide circle of friends here where she has visited before.

Birthday Celebration.

Mrs. O. J. Griffin entertained Monday afternoon at her home on Harvard road in compliment to her daughter, Sarah Alice Griffin, the event celebrating her fourth birthday. Attractive decorations carrying out the Mother Goose rhyme motif were featured. The cake was colorful with pictures of the Three Pigs, Red Riding Hood, Mary Had a Little Lamb and others, with the verses underneath the picture. Green and yellow ice cream animals were served the little guests. Mrs. Griffin was assisted in entertaining by her sister, Mrs. George T. Murphy, and niece, Miss Alice Henry of Birmingham.

Guests included Sarah Alice Griffin, Martha Ann Willis, Betty McDonald, Juliana Rumph, Landra and Daughtry Hardin, Barbara and Beverly Coker, Beth Thompson, Mary Frances Martin, of Monroe, Ga.; Nancy Gow-Edward Malloy Jr. and Joe McGinnis, Birmingham, Ala.

Camp Highland Hoboes Will Hold Homecoming

Highland hoboes will hold homecoming celebration and banquet Thursday afternoon at Camp Highland, with Miss Julia White, grand high mogul of 1934-35, sounding the call for all Y. hoboes to return to their favorite spot. The grand order of Highland hoboes was organized two years ago by business girls who loved Camp Highland and always wished to return for happy reunions. Miss White, former president of the Business Girls' League, will preside at the supper at 6 o'clock when special music and entertainment will be enjoyed.

Hoboes Betty Gordon and Mary Frances Coats are in charge of invitations and arrangements; Hobo Willie Thompson will direct handouts and Hobo Reggie Sue Daniel will call for reports of travels and experiences since the last convention two years ago. Election of a new grand high mogul will call for heated arguments and oratory. Those attending are requested to wear full dress hobo suits and prizes will be given for the most unique outfit.

The advisory board of this organization is composed of the following: Misses Mamie Williams, Blanche Spinks, Frances Morgan, Naomi Myers, Reggie Sue Daniel, Willie Thompson, Evie Mae Cagle, Sara McKinney and Peggy Lavinus. All members and prospective members are invited and are urged to make reservations at the Y. W. C. A. by Wednesday noon.

Wednesday evening Mrs. Cullen Gosnell, chairman of World Fellowship committee, will be guest speaker at Camp Highland, discussing "The Present Turmoil in Spain." There will be a movie and amateur theatricals on Saturday, followed by an informal dance.

Nimble Thimble Club.

The Nimble Thimble Club had a party at the home of Mrs. Sidney Gardner on Forrest avenue recently. Each member received a lovely gift. Present were Misses Marie Gardner, Louise Curry, Emma Gardner, Lucy Puckhamer, Gertrude Gardner, Mesdames T. W. Allen, Joe Curry, Sidney Gardner, Jack Jackson, Clayton Pittman.

WE'LL MEET AGAIN

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Red-headed, blue-eyed Gay, daughter of Mrs. Diana Van Avery, prominent in New York society is engaged to Alan Riggs, and her older sister, Patti, petulant and selfish, is to marry Richard Miller, of Washington. As Patti and Richard sail on their honeymoon, Diana tells Gay Patti's wedding took almost their last dollar, and involved estate of Stephen, Gay's father, who died suddenly, had turned out to be worthless. Also, handsome, popular but without means, had followed the wealthy Lucia Baring from Florida to propose to her but fell in love with Gay at first sight. Gay is very much in love and deeply hurt when Alan says he can't ask her to share his poverty. She would be easier if you hated me," she says. When she phones the news of her broken engagement, Mrs. Mallory's editor sends him to learn the reason. Gay is hurt with Alan who says, "Why don't you stop trying and goes out slumming the door. Diana and Gay move to a small apartment and find Chris is their neighbor. His friend Pessico (Patti) Anders, fashion artist, is in love with fickle MacBolin, aviator, finds Gay job as a model with Marchand's. Diana goes to work as tea room hostess. Lucia tells Gay she is engaged to Alan and invites her to a dance. Gay asks Alan to take her. He finally acknowledges to himself that he is in love with Gay. As Alan dances with her, he tells her he still loves her. "Let's go somewhere where we can talk," he pleads. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

INSTALLMENT XI. To Gay's astonishment, John Wick became a jovial man who left the responsibility of a large store and on his annual visit to New York. Chris's dark eyes that gave messages his lips would not say. Gay felt intoxicated with the music and the strongest arms that day held her. The green chiffon dress was crushed, the gardenias had withered, and her red curls had the dampness of the dawn on them when they went to a well-known midtown restaurant for ham and eggs when the first bright colors of dawn streaked the sky over tall buildings. Drinking coffee, Chris asked, "Well, how was it, Mr. Wick?" "I'm going back to my hotel and sleep a week." "Please don't," said Gay, putting butter on her toast. "Oh, you mean the order! I'll take care of that." He looked at her. "You're too nice a girl to have your kind of job." On the way home in a cab Gay fell asleep. Christ put his arm around her and put her head on his shoulder. He asked they could go on riding like this together to a place where there would be no reminder of Alan Riggs and the other people and things that estranged them now. He had stayed away, and as Gay had looked for him, so he had looked for her, though he knew how futile it was to love her. A stroke of luck would happen to her—and Alan Riggs, loving her, would come back to her. What had he, Chris Mallory, to offer her? The better-skeller life of a newspaperman and small, shabby rooms where her beauty would be wasted? His play... he was writing it with his blood, writing a happy ending to Gay's love story, sending her back to Alan...

He would never forget tonight. In the pattern of their acquaintance it stood out vividly—Gay, close to him, her red curls upon his shoulder, her eyes questioning. Eyes that were not sure—eyes that did not yet know her heart.

When the cab stopped before the familiar house and Gay awoke with a start, Chris Mallory scoffed at the fate that had brought them together—the society girl and the reporter—although he knew that had he not met her, he would have gone on, hoping and groping for the one woman for him. An ironic shaping of things had brought them together. It had shown him a girl he was to love all his life but a girl he could never have.

In the dark, narrow hall she stood close to him. It was above all the sordid things, her feeling for Chris. "I've missed you," she said. "Haven't you missed me?"

His mouth was grim. "I've missed you like the devil." "Aren't you going to see me again?" "Why? See you and love you and know I'll never have you?" He smiled. "Oh, I'll turn up now and then..."

"There is only one thing to keep me from being a fool," he said. "That is to leave New York."

"You're afraid to love me, Chris?" "You don't love me. You like me. That's fine, but that's not enough. I haven't anything to offer you and I'm not going to become involved. I'm going to clear out. Try to get a job somewhere else—another country perhaps."

"You've done more for me than anyone has ever done, Chris. Where were all the people who used to flock around me to get an invitation to my parties? Where were they? If they thought of me at all, they thought, 'I wish Gay were just a forgotten.' But you..."

"I'd have done as much for anybody in a spot. You'd better get some sleep."

She looked up. "Chris, don't go away. I'm still mixed up. Everything bewilders me. I feel lost. Some day I'll find myself."

"Sure you will. But I won't be in the picture. I'm an intruder, and I know it. I'm a hick with a little polish on my shoes and I probably won't amount to much. I don't care about anything—I have to get ahead by graft and handshaking. I wouldn't do that—even for you. The woman who marries me will have a pretty hectic life but it'll be a full life and we'll have fun. Good night, Gay. Forgive the sermon."

He drew her close and put his lips against her forehead. "We said good-bye before but it's final this time," he said. "I wish you luck and happiness."

He was gone. She stared after him, shivering in the light silver wrap. And she came down from the splendid shining heights where Chris lived, knowing she could never climb them again—without him.

When she went into the apartment and closed the door, there were tears in her eyes. Without Chris the way ahead was all unknown.

Gay stopped in at the little tea room where Diana worked and seeing her mother, wearing an immaculate white uniform, go from one table to another cheerfully greeting the people who came in made her think that no amount of hard work or sacrifice on her part could be too great.

Diana, born to be ornamental, had had luxury all her life. Her hands were small useless hands, and her slim body was too fragile for tedious working hours. She came home in the evening, her ankles swollen, her face drawn and weary.

"Darling, what a surprise!" she cried, seeing Gay. "How do you like my little hideout?"

"It's a picturesque little place. It has a foreign flavor." "I'll get you some tea, dear. The manager told me this morning he wants me to tell fortunes by tea leaves. What next, I wonder? How is it you're free this afternoon?"

Gay smiled. "Marchand's been generous since Mr. Wick's big order. I'm going to wander through the stores. And look at clothes you can't have. You haven't had anything new to wear in months. Now have I. I've got to run along now, dear. Here comes..."

A man came in. Diana said, "Good afternoon, Mr. Bannister. I want you to meet my daughter, Gay, this is Mr. Bannister, who never misses his afternoon tea." He was in his late forties, Gay thought. He had a brown face, dark eyes, a close-cropped mustache and his hair was a mixture of black and white. He was dressed well in somber gray.

"Your mother," he said "has made afternoon tea a pleasant habit." At home that night Diana said,

"Isn't Mr. Bannister handsome, Gay? But he looks as if he has something on his conscience."

"And you won't stop," said Gay, looking over a magazine, "until you find out what it is and then, give him your comforting philosophy." Diana rested her head on the back of the chair.

"I wonder where Patti is tonight. Paris probably. She loves Paris. They will be coming home after Christmas. She's been sending my mail to the lawyer, you know. She doesn't know anything about this."

"She'll have her eyes opened," Gay laughed quietly. "She'll say, 'O-o-h, what a horrible little place!'"

"It's the best we can do. And at Christmas we're going to have a turkey, set a tree and invite Chris and Penny to dinner."

"Chris is going away," said Gay, frowning into a magazine. "We won't see him again."

"He's going away because he loves you, dear. He's proud and independent. I admire him for it."

Gay looked up. "There's still Alan, mother."

Diana had gone to the bed and Macduff, a little black ball, was asleep on his pillow. Gay stretched out her slim body in blue corduroy pajamas on the sofa and snapped off the radio with an impatient finger. They played love songs to haunt you and to stir memories, and to Gay they recalled evenings with Alan, certain songs that reminded her of him and the places where they had been happy together. But the most haunting melody of all, she thought, was the one they had played for Chris and her on the night when her silver slippers had seemed to dance above her dreary little world.

The telephone shrilled and a deep voice asked, "Gay?"

"Why, Chris..." "I'm sailing at midnight."

"Sailing? Where?" "I'm going to Nassau and finish the play, and probably write a few more. I haven't got much money but it's worth the chance." He paused. "This is just another in your series of good-byes."

"I don't want to say good-bye to you."

"I want to know if you'll keep Sandy for me."

"Of course, Chris. But I—I won't say good-bye to you. I'll say an revoir because I know we'll meet again."

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

You Must Pick Your Moment for Extracting the Hairpin from the Soup.

I don't know why it's considered so terrible to drop a hairpin into one's soup. But that's neither here nor there, for from all that we can gather dropping hairpins into soup just isn't right. Sometimes, however, a hairpin drops from an animated head without warning. And then the big problem is what to do about it.

If you're lucky you may have a gay young blade sitting beside you who can think up a smart quip about tin in the soup instead of soup in the tin, or something like that, and you can retrieve your hairpin under a cloud of merriment. If, however, your dinner partner hasn't seen the catastrophe it's best to try to continue sitting as if nothing had happened.

Then you can keep your eye on him until he starts gesticulating with his soup spoon to some one on the other side of the table. With a swift motion you can then pull the hairpin out. And if some one catches you at it just say it's a habit with you. You always have to get the cherry out of the bottom of the glass.

II—Falling Rain.

Tests of air show there is almost always some moisture in it. This is true even of what we may call "very dry air."

Often the air holds a great deal of moisture, water vapor which has risen from ocean, sea, lake or river, or from the ground.

A rain gauge.

Sunshine turns water into vapor. Since the vapor is lighter than dry air, it rises to a certain height and hangs there. Often it forms into clouds.

Warm winds, with a great deal of moist air, blow over the land. The land may need rain, but it does not always fall, even when there is plenty of moisture in the air. Let a cool wind blow, however, and there is likely to come a good rain. Cool air is heavier than warm air, and gets down under it. That pushes the warm air higher up, where it is cooled. When the cooling goes down to the "dew point," rain falls.

Long dry spells, or drouths, cause much suffering. There have been more than enough of them this year. Perhaps the saddest part is that a good deal of water usually is present in the air, if only it would come down.

Weathermen use "rain gauges" to tell how much rain falls. These gauges are in use in about 35,000 weather stations all over the earth. The records show that some places have less than one inch of rainfall in a full year, but other places have as much as 300 or 400 inches of rain each year.

A certain part of India has the greatest yearly rain fall. The average is about 426 inches.

A world's record for fast-falling rain was made ten years ago on a mountain in southern California. On an April day one inch of rain fell there in one minute. That is the sort of thing we call a "cloudburst."

An inch of rain may not seem very much, but let us see what it weighs. Water one inch deep over an acre of land would weigh 113 tons! An inch of water over ten square miles would weigh 725,000 tons!

Taking the whole earth, the average fall of rain and snow is about 16,000,000 tons each second of the day. Remember that this is an average. It may seem high when we think of drouths, but rain falls at one place or another all the time.

State D. A. R. Regent Visits in Atlanta En Route to Dublin

Mrs. John S. Adams, of Dublin, regent of Georgia D. A. R., is among the important and prominent visitors in Atlanta this week. She is en route to her home from Clarksville, where she attended the unveiling of the marker erected to Sidney Lanier by the Tomochichi chapter, D. A. R. The marker stands on the site where the immortal poet wrote "The Song of the Chattahoochee."

While in Gainesville Mrs. Adams visited Mrs. Sidney Smith, former editor of the official state D. A. R. page in The Constitution. Mr. Albert Hardy entertained at luncheon for Mrs. Adams during her stay in Gainesville, and she made an address before the membership of William Chandler chapter, D. A. R.

The election of Mrs. Adams to the highest D. A. R. office in the state took place last spring at the annual conference in Savannah and was done by unanimous vote. She is an influential factor in social and patriotic circles and enjoys unquestioned popularity. Hers is an engaging personality that pleases and charms and Mrs. Adams possesses every qualification of leadership. The theme of her administration is "The Youth of Our Land."

MILLET MAY BECOME BREAKFAST CEREAL
ABERDEEN, S. D., Aug. 3.—(UP)—The breakfast food center of America may move westward, successful experiments here with millet as a morning meal cereal indicate. The experiments were conducted by A. W. Schuerle, Aberdeen miller, who steam-exploded millet in a breakfast food-making apparatus to eight times normal size. The results were pronounced by Dr. N. E. Hansen, of South Dakota State College, as "tasty cereal, the equal of puffed wheat in flavor, and retaining a tangy flavor other grains lose in undergoing the same process."

Since millet is a dry weather crop, it can be grown successfully in South Dakota, Dr. Hansen said.

Bewhiskered Russians To Have Beards Cut
MOSCOW, Aug. 3.—(P)—Russia—traditional home of bushy whiskers—is going to the barber shop. More than 700 new tonsorial parlors are to be opened this year with a total of 2,800 chairs, the council of the people's commissars announces.

Another 1,400 shops with 5,600 chairs will go into operation next year. To shave off the whiskers, 4,900 barbers are in training now and another 10,000 will enter barber colleges in 1937.
To keep pace with the men, schools for beauty attendants for women are to be opened in conjunction with the colleges.
The shops will be on a self-supporting basis and profits from the shaves and haircuts will go back into the establishments.

SIXTH WARD MEETING OPENS CITY CAMPAIGN

Candidates for Council Agree To Eliminate Workers at Polls.

First serious skirmishes in the drive of 80 candidates for nomination to 38 municipal offices in the September 2 municipal primary took place last night, and more shadow boxing is slated for the remainder of the week in preparation for the unlimbering of heavy artillery next week as office-seekers definitely pitch their bids for votes.

About 15 appeared last night at the regular meeting of the Sixth Ward Civic League, newly organized for the present 9th and 15th wards.
William B. Hartsfield, mayoralty candidate, was the only one of the trio of qualified aspirants for that post to appear. James L. Wells, reserving before Tammany, at 408 Whitehall street, and Mayor Key, electing to await the formal launching of his bid for renomination next week.

"No Trades"—Hartsfield.
Hartsfield announced he will enter into no trades with any of those seeking the mayoralty nomination or any other candidate. He said he will definitely launch his drive within the next few days.

Another meeting of interest tonight will be that of friends of Roy E. Callaway, opposing Alderman John W. Ball Jr., for the aldermanic position before the newly-created fourth ward. Callaway will initiate his drive for political preference at the Lee Street school, in his home ward, at 7:30 o'clock. Campaign plans will be mapped, and he announced he plans an aggressive drive.

The new sixth ward is provided with the largest list of candidates for the two councilmanic positions in the city. There are seven contenders, and last night every one of the seven with one exception had signed an agreement not to have paid or volunteer workers at the polls on election day in order that voters may exercise their own discretion and make up their minds without undue pressure.

Hiring Is Customary.
For years, it has been the custom to hire poll workers when volunteers could not be obtained. Polls have been cluttered with such workers urging voters to favor their respective candidates, cards have been passed out and many voters, especially women, have refrained from voting rather than fight their way through the army of poll workers, sixth ward candidates said last night.

Action of the sixth ward councilmanic aspirants tonight met with approval of Alderman L. Gloster, and former Councilman Homer C. Foster, who are fighting it out for the aldermanic nomination from the sixth. They both made the same agreement, and it was indicated that the innovation may be received favorably and adopted generally by other candidates before election day. Haller and Foster spoke.

Claude D. Shaw Jr., was the only councilmanic candidate from the sixth ward who has not entered the agreement. Those who have signed the paper, were W. Paul Carpenter, Howard Haire, Maurice K. Lasseter, Alvin L. Richards, Dr. Luther M. Vinton and Frank Wilson.

"New Faces" Urged.
All except Wilson were present at the sixth ward league meeting and made addresses in behalf of their candidacies. Those with council records reviewed them and those who have had no previous councilmanic service exhorted voters to "send new faces to council."

Callaway and Ball also appeared and asked for support, and council aspirants generally promised economical and business administration of the city government. Lasseter added an attack on the present police department management, characterizing the department as a "political football." He favored a new head for the department and a hands-off policy by the committee.
J. B. Smith Jr., president of the Patrons of Public Schools, made a short address following the appearance of Mrs. D. R. Longino, J. B. Hanson and S. C. Noland, candidates for nomination to membership on the new board of education, which will be nominated in the primary.

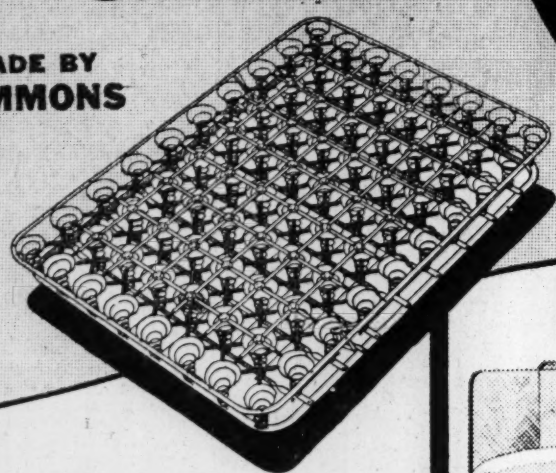

Voters To Be Informed.
Members of the city democratic executive committee met last night at the city hall and decided to circulate every voter before the primary, telling him definitely where he should go to cast his ballot under the newly established precinct voting system.
Committee members also requested City Attorney Jack C. Savage to prepare a measure to be sent to every candidate explaining how nominations for council and board of education places will be made in order to obviate any possible misunderstanding of the committee action.
A majority rule will apply in the original primary, but in runovers the plurality rule will be operative.

JIMMY AND WIFE ARE BACK IN N. Y.
Former Mayor and Mate Pay Visit to Adopted Daughter.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(P)—Disavowing personal political ambitions, James J. Walker came home from Europe today, with his wife, the former "Betty" Compton, the actress, dashed uptown to peek in on his adopted baby daughter "Mary Patricia" and ducked out immediately to pay a few social calls.
As to his views on the political situation, "This is a campaign for patronage," he remarked. "I don't care who's elected, they are not going to repeal the social security or the relief bills."
"It is a question of who is going to control patronage—and if it is that, I'm a democrat. I have no political ambitions. Neither am I a socialist."
The Walkers brought back with them "Sheilah," "Jack" and "Madge"—three Irish terriers which the Walkers will exhibit next winter.
Informed that Mayor F. H. LaGuardia was established in a summer city hall in the Bronx, far from the city's din, Walker cocked his head to one side and remarked that he thought of that.
